David Draper appointed Chief Operating Officer at Binswanger Glass

MEMPHIS, TN: an industry-leading designer, installer, and retailer of architectural glass and aluminum products, has announced a change in its management team.

David Draper has been named Chief Operating Officer and will now oversee the day-to-day operations of Binswanger. Arturo Carrillo, Binswanger's President and Chief Executive Officer, is leaving the company to join its owner, Grey Mountain Partners.

Mr. Carrillo said, "My goal during the last several months of my time with Binswanger was to steward the company into the hands of quality new ownership. Once I accomplished that with the tremendous people from Grey Mountain Partners, I reassessed my future and really wanted to be in a position where I could have a larger impact on the investment and acquisition sides of the business world. I am thankful that I can do that now with GMP."
