GlasWeld introduces its Essential line of windshield repair, headlight restoration and scratch removal products.

Complete systems offer technicians all the essential tools needed at an entry-level price.

February 8, 2012 (Bend, OR) - GlasWeld, a complete solutions provider for the glass repair industry, announces the introduction of its Essentials Series of products for windshield repair, headlight restoration and glass scratch removal. The new line of products was introduced at Mobile Tech Expo in Orlando, Florida.

Three distinct Essentials Series products were introduced all based upon patented and professional grade components; Windshield Repair, Glass Scratch Removal and Headlight Restoration.

Each Essentials system contains all the equipment a technician needs to perform professional repairs at a price point that makes sense. All systems are supported with a full line of additional accessories enabling a technician to increase his or her capabilities at their individual pace. And, all products are supported by GlasWeld's comprehensive training program, available in the form of operational manuals, DVD, GlasWeld's Gconnect online training platform, and in person at the company's world headquarters in Bend, Oregon. GlasWeld Essentials Series kits start at just $495. Learn more about the Essentials line of products at <http://www.glasweld.com/essentials>.

Seth Schuepbach, GlasWeld's Director of Operations, who represented the company at the show, explained that "We were overwhelmed by the level of interest in these new product offerings, the number of sales that were written and the attendance at our company sponsored training sessions. There really has never been a better time to invest in GlasWeld's industry leading equipment."
