Water Doctors International Releases AMAS On Demand

North Myrtle Beach, SC November 13, 2004 -- Water Doctors International, whose AMAS Repair Program has helped automotive professionals diagnose and repair over 8 million wind, water and dust leaks, has released their Program to the general public, through their new AMAS On Demand.

This new system will allow users to purchase individual repairs, without having to become members of AMAS. This provides "do-it-yourselfers" with the same effective, easy-to-understand means to pinpoint the source of automotive leaks and correct the problem so the leak won't come back.

Users can view simple step by step instructions with digital photos, graphics and video, read technical notes involved with each step, see the tools involved, learn the proper testing procedures, and be confident that the process is done right. Time estimates are provided with each repair, along with all materials and tools needed, and the repairs are designed for anyone to perform.

Users of AMAS On Demand will have full access to all the training data, diagnosis data, material info and toll-free phone support that are provided to AMAS members.

Introductory pricing for AMAS On Demand is $24.95 per repair. The user is given access to ALL repairs associated with the year, make and model of vehicle they are looking up. Payment is made online via PayPal, or with any major credit card.

Water Doctors International was created in London, Ontario, Canada in 1976. to service the automotive industry in the repair of water, wind and dust leaks. They have franchises and service centers in 34 states, as well as in Canada. In 1997, Water Doctors began their AMAS Repair Program to provide automotive professionals with the means to make the repairs themselves.
