

A Post Holiday Gift from the IGA to You!

The Independent Glass Association (IGA) offers a technician certification program that is the best available in the industry. The IGA Technician Certification training course is accredited by the Auto Glass Replacement Safety Standards (AGRSS) Council as an AGRSS registered training program. The IGA believes that by certifying your technicians, you have an economical marketing tool to promote your company's commitment to proper and safe windshield installation.

On that theme, the IGA is about to make the program even more economical for you. Through January 31, 2011, the Independent Glass Association is offering free technician certification testing, for up to three technicians, to shops that become members of the IGA. The non member cost of the test is $149. This offer presents your company a one time opportunity to certify your technicians and join the only trade association representing the business interests of independent auto glass shops.

Applications for membership can be requested and questions can be answered by contacting IGA Executive Director Mike Russo at (315)706-9172 or by email, mrusso@iga.org.
