Belron US CEO to Speak at IGA Conference and Spring Auto Glass Show™

A presentation by Dan Wilson, President and CEO of Belron US, formerly Safelite Group, has been added to the agenda of the 2007 IGA Conference and Spring Auto Glass Show™.

Wilson will speak on Friday, May 18 at noon about Belron US and threats to the auto glass business that effect all segments of the industry. A question-and-answer period will be included and conference registrants are encouraged to submit questions for inclusion.

“The decision to include Mr. Wilson on the program is not one that was made lightly,” said IGA president Dave Zoldowski. “The IGA board of directors had long and protracted discussions about the wisdom of doing so. In the end, we believe our members will learn more by being able to hear directly from him about his company’s future plans and by being able to speak with Mr. Wilson about concerns they have, and we appreciate Mr. Wilson’s willingness to participate.”

“Safelite and IGA have very strong areas of disagreement and those continue to exist, but it is very difficult to solve those disagreements if neither group speaks to the other,” Zoldowski continued. “We hope this session is educational to everyone who attends it.”

Wilson was promoted to President and Chief Executive Officer of Safelite Group in October 2003 and assumed his current role as President and CEO with Belron US in March 2007. Prior to joining Safelite Group, Wilson served as President of Western Auto/Parts America. He also has held executive positions with other leading retail organizations, including Wal-Mart.

The IGA Convention will be held May 17-19, 2007 at the Cashman Center in Las Vegas, with two days of educational events, demonstrations, a golf tournament, networking events and a reception at the Harley Davidson Café. Safety Advocate Ralph Nader is scheduled to give the keynote address. He will also be speaking on Friday, May 18.

Pre-registration closes Friday, May 4. Attendees can save $50 per person by pre-registering.
