Two-year platinum sponsor demonstrates commitment to professionalism, performance and speed within the glass repair industry.

11 June 2007 — Bend, OR — GlasWeld, a complete solutions provider for the glass repair industry, is proud to be a second year corporate sponsor of the 2007 Walt Gorman Memorial Windshield Repair Competition, the “olympics” of the windshield repair industry, to be held November 1, 2007 in Las Vegas, Nevada at NACE – the International Autobody Congress and Exposition.

“The Windshield Repair Olympics allows us the opportunity to support the best technicians in the business,” said Mike Boyle, president of GlasWeld. “The competition focus is on quality of repair and the entire customer experience, from educating the customer on the process of repair to providing excellent customer service. GlasWeld is committed to providing equipment, training and support that empowers our customers to provide fast, professional service as well as the long-lasting performance of a quality repair. It is our hope that by sponsoring this event we help raise industry and consumer awareness while improving overall quality of repairs and the service experience.”

Contestants from across the country participated in last year’s inaugural international competition for the repair industry. And we appreciate that he chose GlasWeld to help him get there,” stated Boyle. GlasWeld applauds all of last year’s contestants who participated in the event and looks forward to this year’s competition.
