

Weston, Wisconsin

Date: January 10th, 2007

Precision Replacement Parts (PRP) and Auto Glass Components (AGC), announced today that they will merge their distribution operations, under the Precision name, into the existing Weston, WI location. The widely recognized, Precision alpha identifier and part number will continue to be utilized.

The company is responding to the requests of its customer base that the offerings be combined under one part number and one price. The Precision brand has been synonymous with quality moldings and automotive glass components since 1986. The AGR industry will continue to see the familiar green bag on their shelves containing the same high quality fit and finish parts they've come to expect. Beginning in early March, all products will be shipped from the Weston, Wisconsin location.

The combined sales staff will continue to office out of the Seattle, Washington metropolitan area.
